Now, speak! I woke with your displeasure thudding in my heart, Feeling the immeasurable depth of your presence and your absence, Seeing in the night, Without a single star to guide me, The meaning of it all.

The tide is full, the moon lies fair Upon the straits; on the French coast the light

Carl Sandburg The Cremation of Sam McGee There are strange things done in the midnight sun By the men who moil for gold;
The Arctic trails have their secret tales That would make your blood run cold; The Northern Lights have seen queer sights, My Captain! No prompting, then, to cast off linear thought, Except from the chaotic constellation of the terrestrial lanterns And from your unintelligible smile As you intercepted my searching eyes. Video Games.
